Two of the experts from the firm of de la Rancheraye met me at the house this morning to view the articles to be shipped home when we leave Paris.

Don Cook came to see me at the office.

Afterwards, the Snyders and Miss Odum lunched with us. Evelyn Snyder had a stroke about six months ago and it left one side of her face distorted. John was in wonderful spirits and I was delighted to see him.

Before dinner, Sue and Howard Railey and Henry Hyde came to see us at the house.

We went to dinner with the Jacquinots, who were entertaining in honor of the Snyders. The Edgar Faures, the René Mayers, the Baumgartners, the Jean de Beaumonts, Marthe de Fels, Pierre David-Weil, Daisy de Contades, the T Linsons and others were there. As usual, the culinary offerings were perfect.
